Ilhan Omar (D-MN) says America is “built on the back” of undocumented immigrants because of a “history of slavery, segregation, Jim Crow, and redlining.” “America has a lot of issues to address and we will not be able to do that if we leave millions of people behind in desperate conditions,” said Omar, in an interview with Vox. “I think we need to address real racism and the policies that have been put in place that have been predominantly benefiting a group of people over another,” added Omar, reiterating a controversial tweet she made in March. The congresswoman has been accused of anti-Semitism for insinuating that Jews “control the weather” and have financial influence in the media and politics, and even for suggesting Israel effectively controls the US. Omar’s latest remarks came after a Dec. 27 interview with Univision, where she again touched on her attitude toward Israel, which hosts the United States’ most-liked country. “I think right now we’re in a time where there is a concerted effort by the government and by the powerful entities and by that administration to stoke the flames,” Omar told Univision. “That is very dangerous to this country and to our well-being.” “It is very dangerous,” she added, and this can be seen, she said, in Washington, D.C., where the “countless Jewish community centers” are “targeted and physically harmed.” “For us as 3da54e8ca3
